I. Course Objectives

The introduction to financial accounting is part of the core curriculum for business majors. Accounting is the language of business. In this course, you will learn how to use this new language. This course will cover a broad range of managerial, investment and financial accounting issues with an emphasis on their practical application in the business world. We will discuss the uses and limitations of the financial statements. Procedural aspects of accounting will also be covered in order to enhance the understanding of financial statements. By the end of this course, a student should be able to:

1. Develop a comprehensive and well-founded knowledge of financial accounting and infer the economic events from financial statements.
2. Understand the nature and purpose of financial accounting in relation to decision-making.
3. Develop the ability to form a critical judgement and identify accounting and business problems, apply analytical and quantitative techniques to solve a variety of business problems, understand the evolution of accounting fraud.

II. Textbook and Supplementary Readings

Libby, Libby and Hodge. Financial Accounting, 9E.

Supplementary Readings (Optional): Libby, Libby, and Short. Financial Accounting, 8E, McGraw-Hill.

III. Conduct of This Course

1. General: This class covers numerous interrelated materials. It is essential that you keep up with the class and do not fall behind.
2. Class preparation and homework: To ensure better learning outcomes, you are strongly encouraged to work on the assigned problems (will be announced at the end of class). Completed assignments must be turned in by the due dates to receive full credit. Solving problems is the best way of mastering the material covered in the class. You are encouraged to do additional practice while preparing for the examinations.
3. Mid-term exam: There will be a mid-term exam. The date and content of the exam are stated in the course schedule. It will take 2 hours and account for 30% of the final grade.
4. Final exam: There will be a final exam to be held on July 26.
4. Office hours: Please feel free to email me to make an appointment.

IV. Grading Scheme

Description	Weight
Class Participation and Discussion	10%
Homework	20%
Mid-term exam (Closed book)	30%
Final exam (Closed book)	40%
Total	100%

NOTES:

1. There may be some in-class (group) exercises at the end of class and we will discuss the solutions. The exercise is expected to help you acquire a better understanding of the course materials by discussion.
2. No make-up exams will be given, except for medical reasons supported by proper documentation. Students who miss an exam and expect a make-up one must inform the instructor by email BEFORE the exam starts. Medical documents MUST be submitted. It is the sole responsibility of the student to ensure that the medical document reaches the instructor.

3. School honor code applies to quizzes, mid-term and final exams. Please keep our integrity.
